

Sessionette Compact Bass Amps

Our bass amps came in three types. 1 x 12", 4 x 10" and a 1 x 15" with horn. Session was the first amp manufacturer to fit a high frequency horn in a bass amp. Yes that means even before Trace Elliot!

In fact, I can remember the owner of Trace Elliot getting upset with me because we'd beaten them with the idea. They were still playing with small 4" cone units.

However, our amps did not really affect his business, because they were only 100 watts and were never designed to compete with his 300-1000 watt amps. There were matching extension speaker cabs to go with them too. They sounded really good, but just not that loud!
